So, what's the difference? "When you generate a dossier of clinical evidence for your product," Sheehy explains, "you then submit that to the regulator — in the US to the FDA , and in NZ to Medsafe — because you as the originator need to know that another company can't simply copy the product, and rely on your clinical evidence to become a generic on the market, until the period of data protection is over." Data protection — especially in the emerging field of "biologics" that is generating new and very expensive drugs — appears to be a key point in the TPP negotiations
